To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that Dr Zoran Tadic of the University of Zagreb, Croatia did research in the Zoological Society of London in two periods of 1999:

January 3 - March 30

September 1 - December 4

During these periods, Dr Tadic has been studying reptilian chemical ecology and chemoreception using snakes from the Reptile House of the London Zoo. During his stay with us, he also gained a professional experience in maintaining and managing large reptile collection.

London Zoo
fights to conserve the natural world
by breeding
endangered animals and by inspiring commitment to the conservation
of wildlife
and threatened
habitats.
